Yuan bulls at 33-month low as dim sum yields jump.

Traders' expectations for gains in China's renminbi in the coming year are evaporating as economic-growth prospects worsen, a decade after the nation joined the World Trade Organization. Twelve-month non-deliverable forward contracts on the yuan fell as much as 0.3 percent to 6.4615 per dollar today and were 1.3 percent weaker than the onshore spot rate, the biggest discount since March 2009. The contracts, settled in dollars, allow investors to bet on the exchange rate in a year. (Bloomberg)

China money rate climbs most in 2 weeks as PBOC drains capital.

China's money-market rate rose the most in two weeks on speculation cash supply will wane as the central bank drains funds from the financial system. The People's Bank of China will withdraw a net 73 billion yuan ($11.5 billion) of capital this week as bill sales exceed redemptions, according to data compiled by Bloomberg. The central bank reiterated its stance yesterday for a prudent monetary policy, according to a statement on its website summarizing the results of an annual economic planning meeting of Communist Party leaders in Beijing. Romania 'committed' to sales of minority stakes in 2012.

Romania's government is "committed" to selling shares in state-owned energy companies next year as it's "counting" on capital markets to stop falling and give the country an opportunity to sell at a "proper price," an Economy Ministry official said. The government plans to start the subscription period for the sale of a 15 percent stake in Transelectrica SA by the end of February and for the sale of a similar stake in Transgaz SA in March or April, Florin Vladan, the ministry's director in charge with the sales, said during a conference in Bucharest yesterday. The country will try to push ahead with plans to sell minority or majority stakes in state-owned companies, even during a time of market turmoil that led to the failed sale of a 9.8 percent stake in OMV Petrom SA in July. Romania also plans to sell minority stakes in Hidroelectrica SA and Nuclearelectrica SA in October and November next year, respectively, Vladan said. It will also seek investors for a 15 percent stake in Romgaz SA, the country's natural-gas company by September, according to Vladan. (Bloomberg)

Romania's Chimcomplex to invest up to 22 mln Euro in thermal power plant.

Romanian inorganic basic chemicals maker Chimcomplex (CHOB RO) said it will invest up to 22 million euro ($28.7 million) in building a cogeneration power plant. The company will finance half of the investment with EU funds, while the rest will come from its own funds and loans, it said in a statement. Chimcomplex shareholders approved the investment plan at a general shareholders' meeting held on Monday. (SeeNews)

Foreign*Fitch downgrades 5 major European commercial banks & banking groups.*

In conjunction with a broad review of the ratings for the largest banking institutions in the world, Fitch Ratings has completed its assessment of the large and relatively highly rated European banks. The review has resulted in a series of rating actions announced in the fourth quarter of this year, including yesterday's downgrades of the long-term Issuer Default Ratings (IDRs) and the Viability Ratings (VRs) of five major European commercial banks and co-operative banking groups. Yesterday's actions resolve the Rating Watch Negative placed on these banks' ratings on 13 Oct. 2011. The list of banks affected is below: Banque Federative du Credit Mutuel (BFCM), Credit Agricole; Danske Bank; OP Pohjola Group and Rabobank Group. (Fitch Ratings)

Siemens puts decline to two-year low as valuation sinks (options)

Siemens AG options traders have reduced bearish bets to the lowest levels in two years, speculating the worst is over for Europe's largest engineering company following this year's 22 percent drop. The ratio of puts to sell Siemens shares versus calls to buy has fallen to 1.16-to-1, the lowest since December 2009, data compiled by Bloomberg show. Shares of the Munich-based maker of trains, turbines and health-care scanners trade for 9.3 times reported earnings, or 24 percent less than the MSCI World Index, data compiled by Bloomberg show. The discount was only wider 5.3 percent of the time since 2004. (Bloomberg)

Commodities*Coffee market braces for record espresso-bean jolt.*

Record robusta harvests in Vietnam and Brazil and potentially the biggest jump in Indonesian output in 16 years are boosting supplies of the coffee used in instant drinks and espressos as slowing economic growth threatens demand. Production may climb for a fourth year, gaining 2.3 percent to 55.98 million bags (3.36 million metric tons) in 2011-2012, Rabobank International predicts. More supply will create the biggest glut in at least four years, according to Macquarie Group Ltd. Prices that already fell 9 percent this year will drop a further 8.5 percent to $1,750 a ton by June 30, the lowest level since October 2010, the median estimate in a Bloomberg survey of 13 traders showed. Robusta surged 62 percent in London trading in 2010 as record demand created the first shortages in at least three years, according to Macquarie. (Bloomberg)
