Summary

- BET gained 0.28% yesterday whereas in Europe major indexes were up by 2% or more after ECB's soothing comments saying that the current stimulus' end was distant
- Romania plans to negotiate a similar 2Y precautionary agreement with the IMF
- The CDS is down 10 bp on a weekly basis; bond yields dropped 19-26 bp in the same period.

Local indexes saw modest gains yesterday compared to the dynamics witnessed in Europe: BET moved up 0.28% while in Europe most of the indexes posted gains of around 2% or more. On BVB, equities' turnover was 4 mn EUR and more than one third was made up in the deals market. 4 stocks were traded in the deals market: BRD, SIF Oltenia, Transgaz and OMV Petrom. What gave a strong boost to equities were ECB's comments that the current stimulus measures would end in a distant future. Both the ECB and Bank of England kept interest rates unchanged yesterday.

The prospects of low euro interest rates pushed traders into selling the euro which lost 0.7% to the dollar yesterday and closed at 1.2914. ECB's current position differs from the one of the Fed which announced that it would start cutting down bond buying, given the current state of the economy and its prospects. The leu and its peers all strengthened to the euro yesterday, but the leu had the smallest dynamics gaining 0.1% whereas the Polish zloty and the Czech crown firmed 0.7%-0.8% and the Hungarian forint firmed 0.4%. The EUR/RON is currently trading at around 4.435-4.44 on the interbanking market.

Between 15-16 th July Christine Lagarde will visit Romania. Liviu Voinea declared that the government will look to negotiate a new 2Y precautionary agreement similar to the previous one. Many government officials support this idea, including Central Bank's governor, Mr. Mugur Isarescu.

The 5Y CDS is lower by 10 bp compared to last week, as investors' risk perception of the region improved. The yield curve shifted down and especially bond prices recovered part of the previous loss. Government securities yields dropped yesterday by 1-4 bp and by 7-26 bp on a weekly basis. Money market rates are likely to continue to ease as well, especially after Monday's weekly repo injection.
