Summary

- BET gained 1.12% yesterday whereas major global indexes posted losses; OMV Petrom and Banca Carpatica rose by 4.2% and 7.5% respectively; the final price for the 10% stake in the IPO of Nuclearelectrica was 11.2 RON/share, the minimum of the initial guidance
- The Treasury sold 5Y bonds at an average accepted yield of 4.56%, lower than 4.74% at the similar tender in the end of August; bid to cover was not impressive, at 1.4X.

Domestic indexes saw gains yesterday and BET jumped 1.12% driven especially by OMV Petrom which climbed 4.21% in a day. The company's CEO declared yesterday for Reuters that OMV Petrom planned to invest EUR 1 bn next year and that it is also looking into the exploration of shale gas, if feasible. Total equities' turnover on BVB stood at EUR 2.9 mn. Another surprising hike was the 7.54% d/d advance seen by BCC and of 16% on a weekly basis. The witnessed dynamics diverged from global markets where major indexes took some losses yesterday. The economic data was mixed and did not offer a clear direction: the September manufacturing PMI for the euro-zone came lower than expected but the composite PMI exceeded estimations. In the US, the Markit PMI was also lower than estimations.

The IPO of a 10% stake in Nuclearelectrica ended and the raised amount stood at RON 282 mn (EUR 63 mn). The final share price was the minimum of the target range of 11.2-15 RON/share. The institutional investors and the large tranche investors bought the shares for 11.2 RON/share, whereas the small investors' tranche had allocated a 8% discount for the first 3 subscription days and 3% discount later on.

The euro made a step back against the dollar yesterday, after Mario Draghi reemphasized that interest rates will be kept at the current level (or lower) for an extended period. The euro lost 0.2% to the dollar. The EUR/RON remained almost unchanged and it is now trading around 4.47 as well.

The Treasury sold the planned amount in 5Y bonds at the average accepted yield of 4.56% lower than the 4.74% accepted at the previous similar tender at the end of August. The bid to cover was not impressive at 1.4X.
