Summary

- Contrary to market expectations, annual inflation dipped lower in negative territory (-3.3% YoY) in April.
- Romania's leu weakened somewhat against the EUR, in line with its CEE region's peers.
- The MoF aims to sell RON 300 mn debt today.
- Similarly to the key global benchmarks, the BET finished in negative territory yesterday.

April's inflation caused a downside surprise, falling even deeper into negative territory. According to a NIS report published this morning, the annual inflation rate slipped to -3.3% last month (vs. consensus forecast of -2.9%), hitting a new historical low. In March, the CPI index shed -3.0%. In monthly comparison, consumer prices decreased by almost 0.2% last month, dragged down first of all by food prices (-0.4%), after volatile prices sharply dropped. Non-food goods also went down by 0.1% MoM, as electric energy tariffs shrank 2.0% MoM, which was only partially offset by the increase in fuels' prices (0.8% MoM). Nevertheless, services' prices mostly went up, lifting the index 0.1% higher.

In March, industrial production advanced by 2.9% YoY (gross data), the National Institute of Statistics revealed today. Tomorrow morning the flash Q1 GDP will come out.

After Tuesday's rather positive mood, the sentiment on global financial markets deteriorated somewhat yesterday. Accordingly, the CEE region's currencies, including the RON were traded slightly higher versus the EUR. On the other hand, Romania's leu firmed against the US dollar, after the EUR/USD rose by almost 0.5%.

According to its monthly issuance calendar, the Ministry of Finance plans to hold an auction in order to sell RON 300 mn government debt in 8.8Y securities today.

Yesterday the benchmark government securities' yields eased marginally, while interbank money market rates mostly increased, with the ROBOR 3M going back to 0.76%.

Similarly to its Western European rivals, the BET inched lower yesterday, pointing to a 0.2% loss, after only the shares of the BRD (+0.5%) and Transelectrica (+0.2%) were able to climb higher among the BET's ten components. The largest loss was recorded by Nuclearelectrica (-1.8%).
