Summary

- On Tuesday the political turmoil, triggered by the resignation of PM Tudose, left its mark on the leu's exchange rate.
- Today President Iohannis meets with political parties for consultation about the new cabinet.
- The leu is close to its economic fundamentals, NBR's deputy-governor Voinea said.
- GS's yield curve shifted a few basis points higher yesterday.
- The BET fell 0.3%.

Yesterday the leu weakened further, with the EUR/RON approaching record high. The leu started to lose ground compared to the common European currency on Monday night, after premier Mihai Tudose was forced to resign, as he lost the support of the ruling Social Democrat Party (PSD). According to press information, this came on the back of increased tensions between PSD leader Mr Dragnea and PM Mr Tudose. It is also important to mention that Mr Tudose was the second ousted premier in less than a year.

Nonetheless, the PSD party swiftly nominated European Parliament member Viorica Dancila as new PM candidate. This quick move could ease the tensions on the leu, as it reduces the chance of a prolonged political crisis inside the party. However, uncertainties are set to linger, as President Klaus Iohannis was not certain to accept the PSD's nominee. Today President Iohannis will meet with the representatives of the political parties for consultation about the new cabinet.

The exchange rate of the leu is close to its fundamentals, NBR deputy governor Mr Voinea said on a conference in Vienna.

On Tuesday, government securities' yield curve showed a parallel upward shift, the NBR's data revealed.

Bucharest's benchmark index, the BET eased 0.3% yesterday, recovering the large part of its early morning losses. Simultaneously, the BET-FI was able to record 0.4% gain.
